

Compendium of Management Practices for Statistical Organizations from Statistics Canada's International Statistical Fellowship Programme

This compendium is based on the achievements of Statistics Canada's International Statistical Fellowship Programme (ISFP) which was established in February 2011. The goal of the ISFP was to make it easier to share knowledge and best practices in leadership and management with the top managers of national statistical offices of countries in the Caribbean, Latin America and Africa. The compendium of lessons learned and best practices consists of 28 chapters divided into four main sections:

- Characteristics of an effective national statistical system
- Core management practices
- Improving, modernising and finding efficiencies
